Description
Currently /list just dumps the output into the status window of the server you used it on which is very messy and hard to read.
Adding a channel list view tied to the server in the treebar or some sort of window for /list would improve this a lot.

To be clear, i'm aware of the extra window that pops up when you right click a network and choose 'show channel list'.

I believe it makes more sense to include it as an additional interactive chatview rather than a popout window, especially as a response to using /list, though.
