Description

it would be nice to have a tooltip showing the channel and the username when the mouse is over the <server:channel:user> in the chat monitor (it may also show other informations).

i'm normally more interested on what is being said on all the channel which are open, but from time to time i want to know who as said it and where...

as for now, i have to make the user column wider...

Huh? I don't get that... why would you want a tooltip on <network:channel:user> showing the channel and username, as it's already in that field itself?

hi egs, here you see how i see the monitor: i can guess the channel where the post happened, but certainly not who wrote it :-)
