Description I took another git snapshot today and packaged it as I have been. I installed the new monolithic client (with the -data package). When I started it up, the new window appeared for a second or two and then crashed. Crash log attached.

2nd time it started, but hung, possibly just after I clicked on join. Third time crashed again. Crash log attached.

Also, the time it opened and hung, it said "Not connected to core" in the lower left corner. This was the monolithic client. I didnt' think it could have that warning.
