

Quassel IRC - Feature #858

Send nickserv identify string when switching between nicknames from drop down list

Description Switching nicknames using drop down list (left to input line by default) currently does not send identification string to server and doing it manually is a bit tedious and repetitive task that could be automated since identifications are stored by Quassel already. Auto-identify on nick-switch could be made optional for those who switch between alter-egos frequently :)

Missed the discussion about that.

Has to wait for scripting support due to lack of standards.
